

Miller & Rhoads

To-day is Remnant Day

Remnant Day at the Miller & Rhoads store is the time for clearing out the short ends of piece goods, the odd pairs of shoes, the broken sizes in garments, the little things here and there that are left after the greater part of their lines are sold. These are all assembled and sold at reduced prices for quick clearing. The word Remnant has been associated so closely and continually with a short-end of piece goods that some may have become accustomed to thinking of Remnant Day as meaning only a sale of short lengths of yard goods; but throughout the entire store it has the broad meaning of "Remainders." Thus you may find a dish or two here, a single plate there, a few books or a box of stationery in the book department, an odd rug on the third floor or broken sizes in certain lines of corsets on the second floor. True we have the short lengths of silks, dress goods, wash goods, linens, sheetings, percales and dozens of other sorts of piece goods, but the Remnant Day Clearance means reductions in all parts of the store to clear out the remainders. Come to-day and see what good things are in store for you in every section of the store.

CAPTURE OF HILL NOW LESS CERTAIN

Reformers' Withdrawal of $2,000 Reward Boosts Reuben's Chance of Escape.

Fourteen days now remain in which one may rather in $2,000 of easy money by handing over to the police Reuben T. Hill, ascending cashier of the savings bank conducted by the Grand Mountain United Order of True Reformers. For more than a year now the reward has been hanging within reach of every amateur detective. On September 20, it will be permanently withdrawn, and the capture of the missing bank official will be rewarded with a suitably engraved resolution of thanks.

The order serving notice of the suspension of the reward was issued yesterday from the Richmond head-quarters of the United Order of True Reformers, 601 North Second Street, and is signed by Elmer Ross, worthy master, Maurice Roselle, grand worthy secretary, and Mr. W. L. Smith, grand worthy treasurer.

The order, which boasts Hill's chances of permanent freedom several degrees, and wipes out the possibility of sudden riches by a stroke of the pen reads:

"The $2,000 reward that was offered by the Grand Mountain United Order of True Reformers, for the capture of Reuben T. Hill, the absent-minded cashier of the Savings Bank, Grand Mountain United Order of True Reformers, will be discontinued after Friday, September 20, 1912, as the heads of the new administration will be crowned on this day. You will take notice and sever yourself accordingly."

The banks of the new administration have to be opened, therefore there is no good reason longer to offer a reward which may be claimed any day. The two principal and doubtless suits one Reuben T. Hill.

HELD ON SUSPICION

County Officers Have Evidence Against Man Caught at Lakeside.

Deputy Sheriff W. W. Fisher and Police Officer J. R. Tiller of Henrico County yesterday arrested a suspicious negro at Lakeside Park, and lodged him in the County Jail to await a hearing. The negro, whose name is Jim Williams, and who is about fifty-two years of age.

The officers had had Williams under observation for a number of days because of suspicious conduct in regard to his actions. The stories which he told them in the case as they have been told, the negro has been observed in the neighborhood of Lakeside for several days.

A hearing will be given him this morning. Five years ago Williams was acquitted of a murder charge for lack of sufficient evidence.

SAYS BECKER WILL GET HIS DESERTS

Judge Rosalsky Believes New York Police Will Spare No One in Big Case.

METROPOLIS NO DEN OF VICE

Convicts Offender and Has Less Criminality Than London, Berlin or Paris.

"I have perfect confidence in the ability of the New York police department to cope with the case which is now engrossing the country's attention. If Lieutenant Becker is guilty, the country may rest assured that no pressure which may be brought to bear will interfere with his getting his just deserts."

This was the extent to which Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, of the Court of General Sessions, of New York, would consent to discuss the Rosenthal murder case when asked for an expression at the Jefferson Hotel last night by a reporter for The Times-Dispatch.

Judge Rosalsky, who bears the reputation of being one of the most energetic members of New York City's bench, figured prominently in the news dispatches several months ago as the presiding judge in the famous Brandt-Schiff case.

New York Not So Bad. "I am sorry that I cannot discuss the Rosenthal case with you," said Judge Rosalsky, in reply to the query of the reporter. My reticence is not due to any peculiar significance of this case possesses in comparison with a thousand others. We judges in New York make it a rule never to discuss any case pending in the courts. I consider it a wise rule for obvious reasons.

"However, I will say this: New York is not the hotbed of vice and crime that current reports tend to make the public believe it is. We have an efficient police department, despite glaring instances of inefficiency that must be true of all large world cities composed of many and varied elements. We have records to show that the punishment meted out for crime in the city of New York is severe, and convictions more frequent than in any large city in which it may legitimately be compared.

"The problem in New York is different from that in any other American city, because of the heterogeneous character of its population. That is a factor which is frequently lost sight of when the metropolis is compared with other cities. I am convinced that vice and crime is far less formidable in New York than in London, Berlin or Paris."

Not Chargeable to Foreign Class. Judge Rosalsky scouted the oft-repeated charge that the element in New York, rather than the element in London, is responsible for most of its criminality. His view gains additional pertinence at this time from the Rosenthal case, in which the principal in the crime is a foreigner.

"This charge," said Judge Rosalsky, "is not supported by our criminal records. In a foreign population numbering in the millions it is not surprising that many commit violations of the law. Considered as a whole, however, I am convinced that New York's foreign population is the most law-abiding half of its inhabitants, and that a proportionately larger share of its criminality is traceable to the native born element."

Think It Is Unfortunate. Judge Rosalsky, touching reluctantly upon the Rosenthal case, "that Becker is to be tried before Judge Goff. I know him for a fearless and just arbiter, and one who will not hesitate to sift the case to the bottom."

Upon the subject of national politics Judge Rosalsky was equally reticent. His position as judge he said, could not be divorced from his status of the United States, and any comment on the political situation would be unethical. He was a mere looker-on, he said, and really knew nothing of the claims and counter-claims that appear in the papers.

Judge Rosalsky is in the city on a brief visit to Leroy Mittelbach, of 105 Grove Avenue. He is accompanied by Mrs. Rosalsky and his private secretary, Joseph Schullum. He will return to New York on Monday.

Is Slowly Recovering. The condition of Luther L. Scherer, claimant of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, who is recovering from an operation at Johnston-Willie Hospital, was fairly satisfactory last night. He is suffering from a cold affection.

Blues' Sergeant Quartermaster. Leslie C. Morris, quartermaster-sergeant of Company A, Richmond Light Infantry, is seriously ill at the Virginia Hospital, where he is operated on two weeks ago. Complications have developed which make his condition grave.

Parade to Wear Caps. The military band, which is to participate in the parade, is to wear caps. The parade is to be held on Monday.

City Will Be Host. The city of Richmond will be host to the 5th Virginia Infantry. The city will be host to the 5th Virginia Infantry.

COMMITTEES HAVE PRESSING DUTIES

President Peters to Announce Assignments in Lower Branch To-Night.

REPORT ON AUDITOR'S OFFICE

Street Contracts Far Behind and Need Attention of New Committee.

A call was issued yesterday by President R. L. Peters for the meeting of the Common Council to-night at 8 o'clock to announce the standing committees. President William H. Adams, of the Board of Aldermen, will be out of town to-day, and it is not probable that the personnel of committees of the Board will be announced before Monday night. As the committees are joint bodies, no meetings can be held until both branches have named their members, but the political situation in Richmond is now so acute that many members of the Council will be glad to be relieved of the details of committee service until after the primary next Tuesday. Mr. Adams said last night that the list of aldermanic committee assignments had not yet been completed as some changes would have to be made as a result of the death of Alderman John F. Dunlop, but Mr. Dunlop had been assigned to Streets and Electricity, two important committees, both of which will hardly fall to any new man whom the ward delegation may nominate.

Some Assignments. Of Mr. Peters' assignments to committees from the lower branch it is stated that Mr. Pollock will be put on Streets from Madison Ward, and will become chairman of the committee. Captain Mills will be placed on Streets from Jefferson Ward, occupying the seat of the late John J. Lynch. Mr. Haden will probably continue on Streets from Clay Ward, but Mr. Peters has not indicated to whom that position will fall in Lee Ward. Mr. Batelle will go to the Committee on Light, and will probably become its chairman, as reports indicate that Alderman Haden will be placed on the Committee on Finance and Rules forbidding members of that committee from serving on any other joint standing committee. This rule might have been extended to the Street Committee as members who really attend to the system of bookkeeping in that department have little time to devote to other committees. The Finance Committee, it is stated, will have from the lower branch Mr. Lumaden, of Jefferson; Mr. Fuller, of Madison; Mr. Haden, of Clay; and probably Mr. Butler, of Lee. Mr. Umstead will remain as chairman of the Committee on Ordinance, Charter and Reform.

All of the committees have before them important and pressing duties. Streets and Finance being the most urgent. As soon as organized the Finance committee will take up a report on the system of bookkeeping in that department in regard to the chaotic condition of the Auditor's office, a statement in regard to which was made on the floor of the joint session Wednesday night by Alderman Grundy. No actual loss of the city has taken place, it is stated, but the system of bookkeeping is antiquated, the methods slack, inefficient, and the accounts carelessly kept.

The conditions are said to be due to the increasing age and feebleness of Auditor Warren and the lack of any young blood in the office. The objection to the election of Mr. Warren as chief clerk was on account of his age, the office having already several elderly men not familiar with modern bookkeeping methods. The joint session ignored the protest of Colonel Grundy, and proceeded with the City Ward members, and Grundy has declined at this time to make public the report of the Special Accountant on his examination of the Auditor's office, except to say that it does not show any money loss, but merely careless and unsystematic conditions and methods.

Street Contracts. The Street Committee has an equally important problem to take up on its organization. Every contract for street paving, sewer and other public work in the city is far behind contract time, and in most cases contractors are not getting paid for the work they have done. The City Engineer, Mr. Holladay, who is in charge of the Street Committee, which in each instance gave the contractor more time, over the protest of the City Engineer, Contracts paid in April. The Street Committee is paying in many sections have not been touched, nor is there material on the ground. The inevitable result will be the leaving open of many streets during the winter months, and a considerable part of the annual appropriation for streets will be lost to the treasury unexpended. Although paying is going on in several sections of the city, in no case has a contractor any considerable force at work. In several instances, notably on Main Street between Fifth and Seventh Streets, the Virginia Railway and Power Company has completed the relaying of its rails and paved between its tracks, but the city's portion of the paving of the roadbed of the street has not been touched.

Another Meeting Called. The Real Estate Exchange yesterday invited candidates for the Administrative Board to address its members at 12 o'clock to-day at its rooms, 1014 East Main Street. Speeches will be limited to five minutes each. John C. Easley will preside. Many of the candidates announced last night that they would accept the invitation.

Police Send Out Call for Charles French and Culbert Coghlin. Cards were sent out from police headquarters yesterday morning, calling for Charles French and Culbert Coghlin, who ran away from the County Jail on Tuesday. French is fourteen years of age and Coghlin is one year his junior. Officers are requested to arrest both and notify the local deputy.

French is known to the police, as he has tried running away before. It is thought that Coghlin disappeared was due to his influence. Both boys it is said have been in the habit of reading dime novels, and their destination is thought to be Texas.

CLOSE CAMPAIGN WITH BIG RALLY

City Auditorium to Be Scene of Final Meeting To-Morrow Night.

CITIZENS' ASSOCIATION BUSY

Personnel of Body Is Recalled. Get Election Returns at Auditorium.

Under the auspices of the Clay Ward Active, the final and principal rally of the Administrative Board campaign will be held in the City Auditorium to-morrow night. A band will be present, the members of the club will be on the stage, and the public is expected to turn out in large number. In view of the importance of the occasion, it is believed, and hoped, that the candidates will have something new in the way of speeches.

Thereafter, as the canvass has assumed proportions of intense interest, with charges and counter-charges in the air it is not improbable the meeting will develop some interesting statements.

Returns at Auditorium. The City Democratic Committee has secured the City Auditorium in which to receive the returns of the primary on Tuesday night. Public interest is so great that thousands of people will be out in the streets, and the City Auditorium will be held in the open air. For this reason the largest hall in Richmond has been chosen. Chairman Miles Martin, of the committee, will preside over the announcement of the returns from each precinct will be made from the stage as rapidly as they are reported by the judges of election.

A meeting of the City Committee will be held to-night at Murphy's Hotel for the purpose of selecting a meeting place for the primary and making other final arrangements. Election will be taken on the resignations of several committeemen who will resign because of the Ferguson political activity ordinance.

The candidates will appear to-night at a meeting of the Henry Clay Club, which will be held in the open air in front of the clubhouse at Belvidere and Spring Streets.

Are Well Organized. Practically all of the candidates have at least a partial organization, composed of friends actively at work. Pre-arranged meetings have been made as to the votes expected for each precinct at each precinct. But those who are not so well organized are not so well organized.

As the end of the campaign approaches, the Citizens' Association is active in the city. In the Times-Dispatch yesterday it is received a good many replies to the thought of postal card requests for pledges from citizens to support a ticket, which is composed of Henry P. Beck, Edgar H. Ferguson, Mary Grant, Herman H. Haden, and William H. Haden. It is estimated that 60 per cent of the signers will vote for the entire ticket, while others say they will support one or three or four.

Members of the Citizens' Association believe at least three of their nominees will be elected.

MAYOR AINSLIE ON JOB ALL DAY

Retains Miss Atkinson as Secretary, That Being His First Official Act.

Mayor Ainslie's first official act yesterday was to announce the reappointment of Miss Verna T. Atkinson as clerk and stenographer in his office. Miss Atkinson has held the position since the inauguration of Mayor Richardson four years ago, and is familiar with the routine duties of the office.

Mayor Ainslie also signed and returned to City Clerk Ben T. August two ordinances amending the City Code in reference to the rules of the Council, the first reducing the number of members on the joint standing committees from twelve to ten, each and the second eliminating the Chamber of Commerce members from the Committee on James River Improvement, making that committee for the present consist of seven members, like other Council committees. The arrangement to continue only until January 1, when the Administrative Board takes charge of river and harbor improvement.

The Mayor also approved a joint resolution appointing Gilbert R. Pollock, Herman R. Mills, Carter C. Jones, President Lee Peters, of the Common Council, and H. W. Melton, Joseph E. Powers, John H. Grimes and President William H. Adams, of the Board of Aldermen, as a special committee to prepare suitable rules for the government of the business of the Council after January 1, together with such ordinances and resolutions as may be necessary by the new method of city government. He also signed a joint resolution providing for the appointment of a special committee on administering the resources and business affairs of the city, the committee to consist of the members of each branch of the Council, the Mayor, two Aldermen and three Councilmen.

The Mayor spent most of the day in his office going over many official papers, receiving visits from heads of departments and others and holding a number of conferences as to pressing administrative affairs.

SAW IT DIFFERENTLY. Judge Richardson's First Day. Two small orders constituted the first day's work of Judge D. C. Richardson, of the Hustings Court. The first allowed certain expenses to Judge R. C. Southall during the last few days, and the other gave a book agent permission to work in the city. The importance of the business in hand, the number of persons present, and the fact that it was the first day of the new year, all combined to make the day a busy one for the judge.

Question of Ayes, Courtes, Eyesight and Who Was in the Drug Store. The question of ayes, courtes, eyesight and who was in the drug store, was the subject of a hearing in the Hustings Court. The judge heard the testimony of the parties and made a decision.
